Brand New Book  Print on Demand .A half-century after the dawn of the atomic age, the Freedom of Information Act forces the United States government to release the actual records of the Congressional Advisory Committee on Human Radiation Experiments. FLASHBLIND exposes the truth behind the final Manhattan Project secret that would change the world forever. Jake Holden, a leading-edge geneticist, returns to the Los Alamos Human Genome Project when his brother, who has Xeroderma Pigmentosa, a rare genetic DNA disorder, is diagnosed with terminal cancer. His only hope is to sequence and repair the gene in the Los Alamos National lab, the site of their father s fatal radiation accident and his nightmares. Iran, Iraq, and growing terrorist threats put new life into a cold war doomsday plan to give the government more options than just duck and cover. Doctor William Ramsdale, a fossil left over from the days of the Manhattan Project, gets the go ahead to continue his unethical program of human radiation experiments to find a way to protect our DNA from radiation poisoning. Patients, including pregnant women, prisoners and retarded children, were used without their knowledge or consent, because they are cheaper than chimpanzees. With the help of the Los Alamos Lab s beautiful Navajo personnel director, Jake uncovers the clandestine relationship between the Department of Energy and the Human Genome project, a discovery that destroys his career and threatens his life. His dream of saving his brother depends on uncovering the secrets of the past while struggling in the mire of a modern day big pharma and government conspiracy. To cure his brother, Jake must possess the Holy Grail of modern science--the ability to rewrite human DNA--and stop Ramsdale...
